

Granicus, LLC Marketing Privacy Statement (Last updated: May 31, 2019)

1. Overview

Granicus, LLC (“Granicus”, “Company”, or “We”) is committed to maintaining your trust by protecting your personal data. This statement explains how we collect, use, share, and protect your personal data. Personal data is any information relating to an identified or identifiable person. Your name, address, phone number, email address, and IP address are examples of personal data. Unless otherwise specified, this statement applies to Granicus’ marketing efforts.

Granicus will process your personal data in a transparent and lawful way. Any personal data you provide when using this website or our products and services will be used only in accordance with this privacy statement.

We may change this statement from time to time to reflect privacy or security updates. If we make material changes, we will notify you via the email address listed in your account, or by means of a notice on this website prior to the change becoming effective. We encourage you to periodically review this page for the latest information on our privacy practices.

This privacy statement is provided in a layered format so you can click through to the specific sections set out below.

You have the right to make a complaint at any time to the relevant data protection supervisory authority in the EU member state in which you reside. We would, however, appreciate the chance to deal with your concerns before you approach your supervisory authority so please contact us in the first instance.

3. Which Personal Data Does Granicus Collect, and for What Purpose?

As part of our marketing efforts, we may collect your personal data such as your name, place of employment and address, job position, e-mail address, date of birth, and phone number. This data is generally gathered directly from you through forms on our website, or over the phone and is used to communicate and personalise such communications with you, including offering products and services that we believe may be of interest to someone in your position.

Information about your chosen subscriptions are used to better provide you with relevant e-mail content. We may also gather data about you from publically accessible sources, such as your LinkedIn profile, or we may receive such information from third party lists. In certain situations, such as when you authorise a social network to prefill a form on our website or if you interact with social media buttons on our website, we may receive publicly available data from your social media profile (such as first name, last name, e-mail address, date of birth, gender, job title, and company).

We also gather certain data automatically upon your visit to our website, including Internet protocol (IP) addresses, browser type, Internet service provider (ISP), referring/exit pages, the files viewed on our site and e-mails (e.g., HTML pages, graphics, etc.), operating system, date/time stamp, and/or clickstream data to analyze trends in the aggregate and administer the site. Your IP address may also be utilised to infer your location, which we may use to send you more relevant content.

4. Legal Basis of Collecting and Processing Data

We will use your personal data when the law allows us to. Most commonly, for marketing purposes, we will process your personal data in the following circumstances:

- Where you consent; or
Where it is necessary for our legitimate interests (i.e. we have a business or commercial reason for using your information) and your interests and your fundamental rights do not override those interests.

Our legitimate interests may include:

- Providing high quality customer service.
- Complying with laws or regulations that apply to us.
- Developing our products and services, and what we charge for them.
- Defining customers for our products and services.
- Seeking your consent when we need it to contact you.
- Providing our customers with relevant marketing, and other high-quality product and service features.
- Keeping our marketing updated and relevant.

5. Change of Legal Basis

We will only use your personal data for the uses and purposes set out above, unless we reasonably consider that we need to use it for another reason and that reason is compatible with the original uses and purposes. If we need to use your personal data for an unrelated purpose, we will notify you and will explain the legal basis which allows us to do so.

6. Failure to Provide Personal Data

Where we need to collect personal data by law or under the terms of a contract we have with you, and you fail to provide that data when requested, we may not be able to perform the contract we have or are trying to enter into with you (for example, to provide you with services). In this case, we may have to cancel a product or service you have with us but we will notify you if this is the case at the time.

7. Profiling

We will not use your personal data for decisions based solely on automated processing if the decision has legal effects concerning you or if it significantly affects you, unless you gave your explicit consent for this processing.

8. Do We Share Your Personal Data with Third Parties?

Except as described here or in any of our other applicable privacy policies, we will not sell, distribute, lease, or provide any of your personal data to any third parties unless we have your permission to do so or are required by law.

We share your personal data with the following categories of recipient:

- Agents and subcontractors. We may disclose your personal data with our agents or subcontractors for the purposes identified above. In these cases, the agent or subcontractor will be obligated to use that personal data in accordance with the terms of this privacy statement. Your data may be shared with these types of agents and subcontractors:
 - Data deduplication and rerouting service provider
 - Customer Relationship Management (CRM) service provider
 - Marketing automation and analytics provider
 - Sales development tools provider
 - Conversion optimisation and lead generation services provider
 - Webinar marketing service provider
 - Sales engagement solution provider
- Third parties as permitted or required by law. This may include disclosing your personal data to regulators, or law enforcement authorities. We may transfer and disclose the data we collect about you to comply with a legal obligation, including responding to a court order, to prevent fraud, to comply with an inquiry by a government agency or other regulator, to address security or technical issues, to respond to an emergency, or as necessary for other legal purposes.
- As part of a business transaction. In relation to an ongoing or proposed business transaction such as a transfer of the ownership or operation of Granicus, LLC or any companies in its group to another organisation, if we merge with or are acquired by another organisation, or if we liquidate our assets, your personal data may be transferred to a successor organisation. If such a transfer occurs, the successor organisation's use of your data will still be subject to this statement and the privacy preferences you have expressed to us.

9. International Data Transfers

Granicus is owned and operated within the United States. Therefore, the data that we collect from you will be transferred to, and stored at, a destination outside the European Economic Area ("EEA").

Privacy Shield Certification

Granicus participates in and has certified its compliance with the EU-U.S. Privacy Shield Framework. Granicus is committed to subjecting all personal data received from European Union (EU) member countries, in reliance on the Privacy Shield Framework, to the Framework's applicable Principles. To learn more about the Privacy Shield Framework, visit the U.S. Department of Commerce's Privacy Shield List.

Granicus is responsible for the processing of personal data it receives, under the Privacy Shield Framework, and subsequently transfers to a third party acting as an agent on its behalf. Granicus complies with the Privacy Shield Principles for all onward transfers of personal data from the EU, including the onward transfer liability provisions.

With respect to personal data received or transferred pursuant to the Privacy Shield Framework, Granicus is subject to the regulatory enforcement powers of the U.S. Federal Trade Commission. In certain situations, Granicus may be required to disclose personal data in response to lawful requests by public authorities, including to meet national security or law enforcement requirements.

In addition, Granicus has agreed to cooperate with the European Data Protection Authorities for the purpose of handling any unresolved complaints regarding personal data concerns. Data subjects may engage their local data protection and/or labor authority concerning adherence to the Privacy Shield Principles, and Granicus shall respond directly to such authorities with regard to investigations and resolution of complaints.

Under certain conditions, more fully described on the Privacy Shield website, you may be entitled to invoke binding arbitration when other dispute resolution procedures have been exhausted.

As a global company, Granicus employs a multifaceted approach to protecting personal data. For example, when transferring personal data between corporate entities, Granicus relies on different legal transfer mechanisms (e.g., standard contractual clauses or Privacy Shield certification) depending on the type of personal data needed and countries involved. Please contact Granicus for any questions you might have or for additional information regarding the protections in place to protect your personal data.

10. Security

We are committed to ensuring that your personal data is secure. To prevent unauthorised access or disclosure, we have put appropriate technical and organisational measures in place to safeguard and secure your personal data.

If a data breach does occur, we will do everything in our power to limit the damage. In case of a high-risk data breach, and depending on the circumstances, we will inform you about remedial actions to prevent any further damage. We will also inform the relevant supervisory authority or authorities of the breach.

Unfortunately, no security measures are completely secure. We therefore cannot guarantee that your personal data will not be disclosed, misused or lost by accident or by the unauthorised acts of others. Further, we cannot control dissemination of personal data you post in the public domain and you should have no expectation of privacy in respect of such data.

The procedures and related standards include limiting access to data and regularly testing and auditing our security practices and technologies.

Employees and temporary workers are required to follow policies and procedures and complete confidentiality training to understand the requirement of maintaining the confidentiality of customer information. If they fail to do so, they are subject to disciplinary action. All employees are required to complete privacy, security, ethics and compliance training. We also offer a wide variety of other training to all employees and temporary workers to help us achieve our goal of protecting your personal data.

11. Data Retention

How long we retain your data depends on the type of data and the purpose for which we process your data. Your data will not be retained for a period longer than necessary for the purpose for which we have processed your data, plus any statutory period during which we need to retain the data to resolve any legal claims.

Data processed for marketing purposes will be retained for as long as you remain a customer. However, certain opportunity data (information about potential or consummated sales) related to your account will be retained for up to 5 years after you cease being a customer. If you have subscribed to receive marketing information from Granicus but have ceased engaging with Granicus emails or offered content, your personal data will be erased after 5 years of non-engagement. Please note that it may not always be possible to completely remove or delete all your personal data from our databases without some residual data because of backups and other reasons.

To determine the appropriate retention period for the information we collect from you, we consider the amount, nature, and sensitivity of the information, the potential risk of harm from unauthorised use or disclosure of the data, the purposes for which we process the data, whether we can achieve those purposes through other means, and the applicable legal requirements.

12. Data subject Rights

To exercise any of the following rights, please contact gdpr@granicus.com. If you need to escalate a matter or feel that your issue is unresolved, please contact our DPO.

You will not have to pay a fee to access your personal data (or to exercise any of the other rights). However, we may charge a reasonable fee if your request is clearly unfounded, repetitive or excessive. Alternatively, we may refuse to comply with your request in these circumstances.

We may need to request specific information from you to help us confirm your identity and ensure your right to access your personal data (or to exercise any of your other rights). This is a security measure to ensure that personal data is not disclosed to any person who has no right to receive it. We may also contact you to ask you for further information in relation to your request to speed up our response.

We try to respond to all legitimate requests within one month. Occasionally it may take us longer than a month if your request is particularly complex or you have made a number of requests. In this case, we will notify you and keep you updated.

12. 1 Right to Request Access

You have the right to request details of your personal data that we hold. Upon request, we will provide a copy of such personal data within a reasonable timeframe.

12. 2 Right to Rectification

If you believe that any personal data we are holding on you is incorrect or incomplete, please contact us as soon as possible at the address above. We will promptly correct any personal data found to be incorrect, though we may need to verify the accuracy of the new data you provide to us.

12. 3 Right to Object

You may choose to object to processing of your personal data where we are relying on a legitimate interest and there is something about your particular situation which makes you want to object to processing on this ground as you feel it impacts on your fundamental rights and freedoms. In some cases, we may demonstrate that we have compelling legitimate grounds to process your data which override your rights and freedoms. You also have the right to object in cases where we are processing your personal data for direct marketing purposes. We will provide you with appropriate choices to opt-in or opt-out as set out above in this statement.

Please note that your objection may be overridden by the legitimate interests of Granicus to process and collect your personal data.

12. 4 Right to Erasure

To the extent legally permissible, you may be entitled to have certain personal data erased in the following circumstances:

1. The personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected or processed.
2. You object to the collection or use of your personal data and there are no overriding legitimate grounds for the processing.
3. The personal data has been unlawfully processed.
4. The personal data has reached the defined retention period or for compliance with a legal obligation to which Granicus is subject.

You can exercise this right by emailing us at gdpr@granicus.com or by visiting our subscription management centre. Note, however, that we may not always be able to comply with your request of erasure for specific legal reasons which will be notified to you, if applicable, at the time of your request.

12. 5 Right to Restriction of Processing

You may have the right to restrict further processing of your personal data in the following situations:

1. You contest the accuracy of the personal data
2. The processing of the data is unlawful.
3. The personal data has reached the defined retention period, but you require the personal data to establish, exercise, or defend legal claims.

4. You object to the processing of data pursuant to the right to object as described above. The processing may be restricted pending the verification of whether Granicus's legitimate grounds override your rights as a data subject.

12. 6 Right to Portability

You have the right to receive your personal data in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format. Granicus will assist in the transmission of such data to another entity, upon request, to the extent technically feasible. Note that this right only applies to automated information which you initially provided consent for us to use, or where we need the info to perform a contract with you.

12. 7 Right to Revoke Consent

If you have consented to the processing of your personal data via the explicit checkbox located in the forms you filled out, you have the right to revoke such consent by unchecking the consent checkbox or by visiting our subscription management centre and unsubscribing from all emails. However, if you withdraw your consent, this will not affect the lawfulness of any processing carried out before you withdraw your consent.

12. 8 Right to Make a Complaint

You have the right to make a complaint at any time to the relevant data protection supervisory authority in the EU member state in which you reside.
